

Communicaid

Communicaid needed a stylish, dynamic but interesting design for their language and communication skills consultancy website. The entire design and animation was completed in partnership with Strategic Internet Consulting who created the back end technologies to power the website.

Using Communicaid's already established brand identity Gamma Media focused upon creating an identity and online style guide that could represent the brand while conforming to the requirements of the system. Modular and clean design was essential in conveying Communicaid's commitment to communication excellence.
